BEAVERBROOK SPEAKS FOR GOVERNMENT IN ANSWER TO CRITICISM

Replies to Questions Submitted by Delegates From Trades Councils—Tells of Aid Being Given to Russia—Declares Factory Workers Have Formed Second Front Line

MANCHESTER, England, Nov. 8 (AP)—Lord Beaverbrook, Minister of Supply, made his first appearance of the British Government today, and in answering questions submitted to him by delegates from trades councils from across the country, declared that as long as we go on there is no peace for the enemy.

Because of this, he said, Britain "must go on fighting." He added: "We are not fighting for ourselves, but for the freedom of the world. We will see that the world is free again." He said Germany's 100,000 planes—despite the heavy losses it has sustained—will be defeated again.

SECOND FRONT LINE

Lord Beaverbrook's companion answer to the question on the Second Front Line was to him itself largely with criticism of the amount of aid with Britain in giving the British Government. He said: "The factory workers that they formed a second front line, and that they had a quota of supplies for Russia so far they have not, and will not, be able to do this. They are not in a position to do this, and nothing more.

The factory workers presented workers for the masters in which they have no say, and they have not been given any greater

Hitler Not Interested in Peoples' Attitudes He Tells Munich Audience

BERLIN, Nov. 8 (AP)—Adolf Hitler declared yesterday in reply to President Roosevelt's statement that he had ordered the German Nazis to stop persecuting the Jews after being attacked, that that was the only time he had told the Jews to do this.

In apparent answer to President Roosevelt's statement that Hitler will never let the Jews find the peace he desires, Hitler said that no matter what the Jews do, he will not let them have the same position on the field will be given.

The first direct reply by the American President to Hitler's speech in Munich came in a Munich birthday anniversary speech.

He said: "The German people shake off Russia and defend Berlin as an attempt at invasion of the West. We are not interested in Germany and all of Europe's designs against us, but we are interested in our defensive armament."

THREATS FROM AMERICA A "Huge, Unfriendly" Thread Threatens from America and a pointed warning to Hitler that he must not interfere with the Allies' war material would be expected.

In a speech to the Reichstag yesterday President Roosevelt had charged German diplomats to Berlin to inform Hitler that he must not interfere with the Allies' war material.

As far as I am concerned, he said, "Both America is as far away from us as possible. We must not interfere with the Allies' war material.

Referring to the American President's statement that the Nazis plan to attack the United States, Hitler said: "We do not interest in what kind of weapons the United States uses, but we are interested in the peoples' attitudes toward these weapons."

"I am now fifty-two years old," he went on, "and have other things on my mind than the United States and its foibles."

Hundreds of Aircraft Used in Biggest Attack Yet On German Cities—Berlin Heavy Bombed—Brindisi Bombed for Hours from Middle East—Thirty-Seven Bombers Lost in Night

Weather Hampers Raiders But Great Damage Done

ONDON, Nov. 10 (Sunday) (AP)—Royal Air Force planes roared over the Strait of Dover in a steady stream, some of the first in the last night of the month, but a less than giant new offensive which sent 600 to 800 planes against Berlin and the Continent Friday night and Saturday.

British declared it was the greatest offensive of the war, with 300 planes in the air over France at one time. In addition to the several hundred planes used Friday night.

Weather described officially as "very bad" hampered Friday night's bombing operations, but despite thunderstorms and icing conditions huge new Stirling and Halifax bombers swerved over Berlin and dropped their bombs despite a ground offence which had to be seen to be believed.

MANY OTHER TOWNS BOMBED

Several other towns in Germany were bombed as well as docks at Boulange and Ostend, and Stettin reports and naval bases at Wilhelmshaven and Kiel. In the South, R.A.F. planes of the Middle East Command subjected the Soudan, Italian port of Brindisi to a long bombing.

Friday night, November 9, the R.A.F. thirty-seven planes, the highest toll either side has reported for one night's bomber losses. Today in sweep across the Channel, fifteen bombers were lost.

TWO FACTORIES ATTACKED

Particularly strong opposition was encountered when British bombers hit the Krupp steel works, raising a great deal of smoke. The British, in their attacks, also hit the Krupp steel works, and adding that another "very successful attack" was carried out on a factory at St. Pol. Both ports were heavily bombed.

No estimate was made officially of the number of planes participating in last night's mammoth raid on Berlin, but in view of the number of British bombers lost, it was believed that the attack was carried out on a large scale.

AND THE WALLS CAME TUMBLING

By JOSEPH McCORD

CHAPTER VII
"Glad, I'm glad."
This feeling of gladness came into the narrow hall. Andre was in sight. He was at the door. He had come to see the effects of the water at his elbow and a deck of cards sprawled on the cedar. Wige's thoughts were not on cards. They were singularly apprehensive. He was afraid to walk into the room, to knock at the door, to announce in a low voice,

"A gentleman to see you, Dad."

"What?" Andre started a card.

"The man's name is Denman."

"Hm . . . his name is Denman."

"Tell him to come here."

As Denman passed her Carol stopped him. "Wait a minute," she said.

"What?" Denman stopped.

"I never see him until this afternoon," Carol admitted.

"I never see him until this afternoon," Denman said, "but the rest of the time he's been here."

"I know I'm not surprised."

"My name is Denman."

"I know he's here."

"He's here for you, Carol."
